The Moselsteig and Saar-Hunsrück-Steig trails are both close to the villa. Villa Borg is also accessible to cyclists, and the Römerrunde, the e-velo route Mosel-Saar-Rendezvous and the Saarschleifen-Runde easily enable this.

Discover, experience and enjoy

Immerse yourself in the exciting, colourful world of the Roman Villa Borg!

What is the best way to visualise life on a Roman estate?

The open-air museum demonstrates how Roman life flourished in the Saar-Moselle region 2000 years ago. The entire villa has been faithfully reconstructed as a fully functional complex - the only example of its kind anywhere in the world. The villa's baths, tavern, the manor house with its museum, the residential and farm buildings, the gardens, the gatehouse building and the Roman kitchen have all been faithfully recreated.

A LIVING WORLD

The villa's museum displays many of the important archaeological finds from the site. Using multimedia, visitors are transported back to Roman times. In the stylish reception hall of the manor house, couples can get married in a civil ceremony in an ancient ambience.

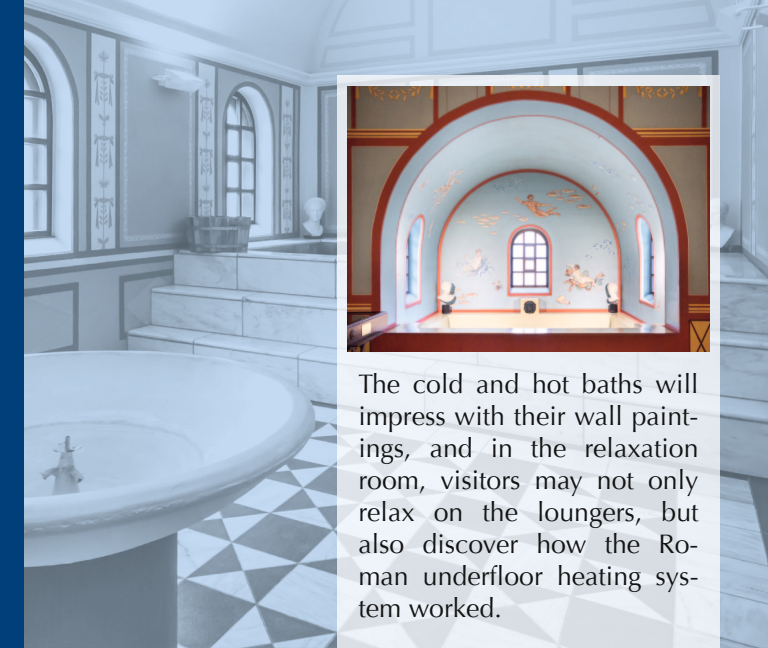

MUSEUM TREASURES

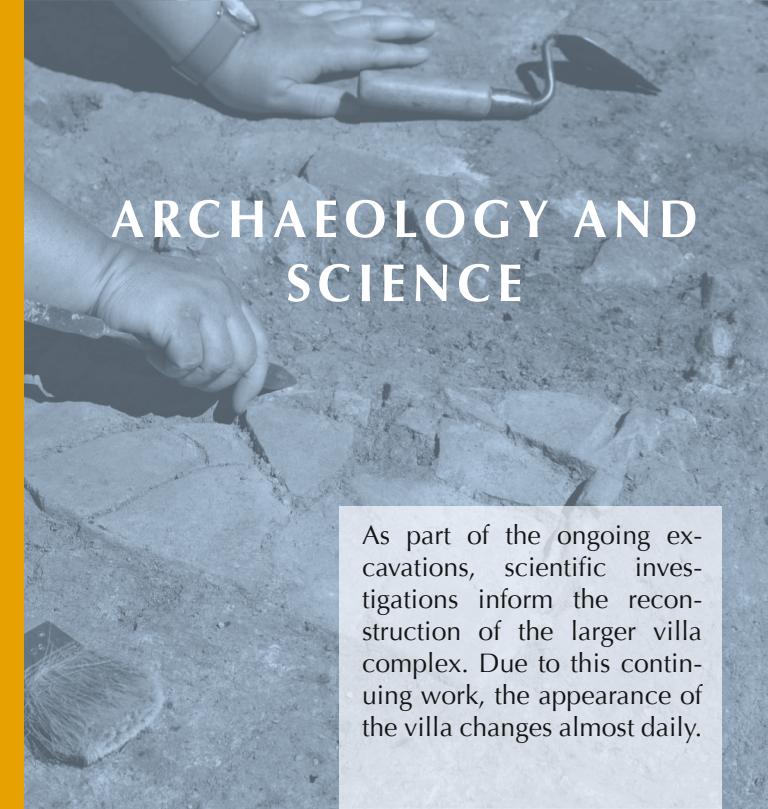

Cult
1. Fragment of a sitting mother goddess (low)
2. Head of a mother goddess, clay.
3. Head of a mother goddess, clay.
4. Fragment of a mother goddess (upper part)

BATHING CULTURE

The cold and hot baths will impress with their wall paintings, and in the relaxation room, visitors may not only relax on the loungers, but also discover how the Roman underfloor heating system worked.

ARCHAEOLOGY AND SCIENCE

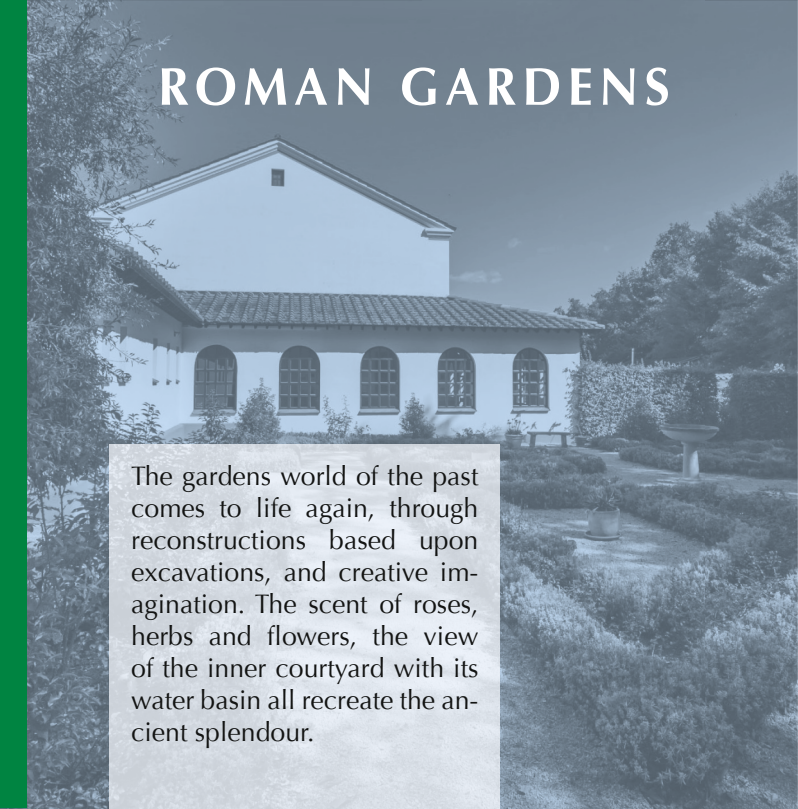

As part of the ongoing excavations, scientific investigations inform the reconstruction of the larger villa complex. Due to this continuing work, the appearance of the villa changes almost daily.

Whether in a legionary's tent, or in a bed in the garden under the open sky, an overnight stay becomes an unforgettable happening you will not experience every day...

ROMAN NIGHTS

ROMAN GARDENS

The gardens world of the past comes to life again, through reconstructions based upon excavations, and creative imagination. The scent of roses, herbs and flowers, the view of the inner courtyard with its water basin all recreate the ancient splendour.
